Free Wireless Internet Access Available at Okaloosa Regional Airport

The Okaloosa Regional Airport, in conjunction with Wavenet Technologies and the Okaloosa County Information Systems Department, has installed Wireless Internet in the airport. Wireless Internet access, commonly referred to as WiFi, uses radio frequency signals to exchange information between a wireless device and the Internet.

“This is great news to frequent fliers in the Airport, who use wireless internet while traveling,” said Information Systems Director Don Vanderhoek. The WiFi service is free of charge to the traveling public and is accessible throughout the entire 110,000 square foot facility. There is no time limit on using the service and a password is not required; patrons simply launch a Web browser to establish a connection.

“This is just another example of how the airport continues to offer world class service to our business and leisure travelers,” stated Airport Director Jerry Sealy.
